FROM THE LONDON PAPERS, Aug. 1.

Paris, July 18. The suit of Comte Cagliostro against Mess. de Launay and Chenon, is at present the great talk of this city. Those gentlemen throw the blame from the one to the other, which makes it imagined that the complaints of the Comte are well founded. With respect to the Mr des Brunieres, the Inspector of the Police, he defends himself for taking away the four phials of essence of roses (which by the bye are said to have been worth 1500 livres each) in a truly laudable manner: he declared he believed it to be a liquor which, if poured upon copper, would turn it into gold, and that he intended presenting them to Government.

LONDON, Aug. 1.

On Saturday last the Marquis of Carmarthen and Mr Pitt set off for their respective country seats.

Yesterday morning Lord Sydney and the Duke of Queensberry set off to Brighthelmstone.

Yesterday Sir Joseph York set off for France.

Yesterday morning Mr Penn set off from his house in Queen-Anne street, for Falmouth, in order to embark in the packet for America.

The Duke of Saxe-Gotha, who is come incog. to England, is gone with Count Bruhl to make a tour of the most antique places of historical record in England, and returns to Germany early in autumn.

The Duke of Saxe-Gotha is uncle to his present Majesty, and on account of his advanced age, and to avoid the troublesome etiquette of Court, does not come to the Drawing-room at St James's, and appears abroad in the character of a foreign gentleman.

The report of the Prince of Denmark's visiting this kingdom, is again revived; and the object of the visit is said to be of a tender nature.

Sunday last, at twelve o'clock, Prince Charles of Mecklenburgh embarked at Dover, on board the King George passage vessel, for Calais.

Yesterday the Lord Chancellor sat at Lincoln's-inn-hall, and went through the business with good spirits. But it is still the opinion that he will soon resign, and the Seals be put in commission.

Sir Philip Jennings Clerke, it is believed, will be appointed Comptroller of the Mint, in the room of Mr Buller, deceased.

And it is also said, that Mr Eden is to be the Lord of Treasury, in the room of Mr Buller.

With respect to the situation of the Prince of Wales, a correspondent observes, that adversity is an excellent school for the cultivation of virtue. It cannot be disguised, says he, that the Prince has had a strong inclination for pleasure, and such a propensity cannot be too early checked. When we consider the warmth of this great personage in his attachments, the firmness of his purposes, and, above all, the resolution and intrepidity he has discovered upon a late memorable occasion, we are disposed to flatter ourselves with the most brilliant prospects of his future character. He has but to practise self-denial and restraint; to shake off a few venial irregularities of youth, and firmly to persevere in what he has so nobly purposed, to render our highest expectations of him probable and rational.

The dissipation of the nimble-footed madcap Prince of Wales, afterwards King Henry the Fifth, has been, perhaps, too precipitately compared with the conduct of an illustrious personage of modern times. We pretend not to decide how far this parallel will be justified by the event; but it must be confessed that early gaiety and dissipation are circumstances that have been incident to the noblest characters, and are by no means to be regarded as unpardonable errors.

The Prince of Wales's birth-day will be kept at Chatsworth with every mark of respect and esteem. Some of the opera band are engaged to enrich the festival by music. Several brilliant parties will partake of this fete.

An elegant post-chariot, equally remarkable for its beauty and convenience, has just been finished by Mr Hatchett, of Long-acre, which, we hear, is intended as a present from a great personage to Prince Charles of Mecklenburgh.

It is calculated that the public revenue will be benefited near 100,000 l. per annum by the late starch act.

Yesterday morning the purser of the Barwell East India ship, Robert Carr commander, from China, arrived at the India house, with an account of the safe arrival of the said ship off Dover. The Barwell sailed from Portsmouth the 8th of March 1785 outward bound.

The Rev. Samuel Prevost, A. M. and the Rev. Mr Griffiths, are coming to England, in order to be consecrated Bishops, the former of New York, and the latter of Virginia.

The late remittances from America have had a very visible effect on our commerce with that country. Two-fifths of the goods entered one day last week at the Customhouse were consigned to different parts of the States.

The last letters from Berlin advise, that the price of wool is considerably risen there, very little of which was brought to the last fair; and that so great has been the mortality of sheep in the Prussian dominions, that no less than 1,200,000 of those useful animals died within the last twelve months.

When Lord Macdonald was rallied by a friend on the smallness of his subscription to the fisheries, though his estate is bounded on all sides by shoals of herrings; his Lordship, with that promptitude of wit which distinguishes him on all occasions, instantly replied, that no man was fonder of fish than he was; but, like the cat, he did not care to wet his feet in quest of them.

Though his Majesty was enabled by the intelligence he had received from abroad, to assure the Parliament that there was no probability that the public tranquillity would soon be interrupted, yet this assurance could be meant only so far as this kingdom was likely to be affected; or rather, the plain meaning of it was no more than this, that the powers abroad entertained not the least idea hostile to Great Britain; but most certainly the continuance of tranquillity on the Continent is at best problematical; for if we may credit the accounts we receive from Holland, that Republic is at the eve of a great convulsion, if not of a Revolution. The State of Utrecht, divided within itself, is absolutely preparing, the one part for actual hostilities, the other for defence. The extent of the powers of the Stadtholdership is seemingly the cause of the dispute; but in reality the very existence of that office must be involved in the contest. One party, in the Republic at large, aims, though indirectly, at the abolition of the office; while the other has for its object to render the Stadtholder wholly independent of, if not paramount to the States General. If the consequences of such a dispute were to affect the Dutch only, we might, as good neighbours, content ourselves with neighbourly exhortations to that people, to court reconciliation. But as some of the greatest powers on the Continent have already interfered in a political rather than a neighbourly manner, it will be a difficult matter for England to remain a neutral and indifferent spectator of the struggle. France has already supported the Anti-Orange party, while the Stadtholder's cause has been as warmly protected by the Court of Berlin. The enmity of France to the Prince of Orange arises from the resentment which that country entertains against his Highness, for having, during the course of the late war, shown a partiality to England. The Prince, therefore, having brought upon himself and his house so powerful an enemy, has a claim upon this country for support; a claim founded no less in gratitude, than justice and sound policy. If England wishes to keep herself out of the dispute, there is no doubt but, as his Majesty assured the Parliament, the tranquillity of these kingdoms is not likely to suffer an interruption; for no foreign power will attempt to invade them. But should matters be carried to those extremities in the Republic, to which they seem to be fast verging, it may perhaps be as difficult, as it would be impolitic, for England to observe a neutrality.

But it is not in Holland alone that the tranquility of Europe is threatened. The Ottomans and Russians are, according to all appearances, on the eve of a war. The last dispatches from St Petersburgh announce, that orders had been issued there after the meeting of an extraordinary council, for the immediate equipment of a fleet of thirty sail of the line, which are to proceed to sea without the least delay: This great armament is said to be destined to act against the Algerines in the Mediterranean: But every one must see that so great and expensive a force cannot have so paltry a destination: A few frigates would be sufficient for the protection of the Russian trade in the Mediterranean, and for commanding respect to that Imperial flag. So great a fleet, therefore, must be destined to act against the Turks, the only power in Europe with which Russia appears at present to have any cause of quarrel.

A very serious and alarming question is suggested by the notice in the Gazette—"That the principal privileges and immunities enjoyed by the British merchants in Russia are continued to them till the 1st of January next.' Are only the principal privileges continued to us? Have we then lost a part of the privileges secured to us by the last treaty of commerce?

From the BAHAMA GAZETTE.

Mr WELLS,

The inclosed is a copy of a letter from the American General Lee, to Mr William H. Drayton, of South Carolina. It carries internal proofs of authenticity, and was evidently written soon after the Congress had confirmed the sentence of the Court Martial held on Lee, in consequence of his behaviour in the action at Monmouth in June 1778. It has never yet appeared in print; and is certainly too good a thing to be lost to the world. Your publishing it will therefore oblige

Nassau, April 17, 1786. A. Z.

AS I have now settled all my affairs, and as I am given to understand that you may probably set out soon for South Carolina, I take the liberty of addressing to you this letter, which is to close our correspondence for ever. Until very lately, I was taught to consider you only as a pompous fantastic Comedian, a mere Malvolio, never to be thought or spoken of but for the sake of laughter; and when the humour of laughter subsided, never to be thought or spoken of more. But I find I was mistaken; I find that you are as malignant a scoundrel, as you are universally allowed to be a ridiculous and naseous coxcomb. You say, that I am legally disgraced: if you mean that I am legally disgraced by the iniquitous and absurd sentence passed upon me by that wretched Jury of matrons (for they cannot be called a Court Martial) by which I was tried, all I shall say in reply is, that I can with confidence pronounce, that every man of rank in the whole army, who was either present in the action, or at the trial; every man on the whole continent, who has read the proceedings, is of opinion, that the stigma is not on him on whom the sentence was passed, but on those who passed it. Perhaps indeed I might make two exceptions, your principal coadjutors in the honourable business, Mr Penn of North Carolina, and Dr Scudder of the Jerseys; for to do you justice, I do not think you quite blockhead enough yourself, to think the charges had a shadow of support. With respect to the confirmation of this curious sentence, I do not conceive myself at liberty to make any comments on it, as it is an affair of Congress, for which body I ever had and ought to have the most profound respect. I shall only lament, that they should ever have been disgraced by so foul a member as W. H. D. If you think the terms I have made use of severe and unmerited, my friend Major Edwards is commissioned to point out the remedy. C. L.

New-York, May 26. The paper money, for the issuing of which the legislature of South Carolina passed a law at their last session, is now come into circulation. The principal merchants of Charlestown have "engaged and bound themselves to each other in the most solemn manner, on their honour, to receive it equal to gold and silver, making no distinction in payments for debts due to, or for any articles hereafter to be sold by them; and that they will not directly nor indirectly purchase, or suffer to be purchased for them, of any factor or other person or persons, produce of any kind, or any other article whatever, in which an abatement is offered to be made for the payment of the same in gold and silver. And they further promised in the above manner, if any person or persons shall offer to make a distinction as aforesaid, so as to create a depreciation in the said paper medium, that they will not purchase, or cause to be purchased, from him or them, any produce or other article, until he or they shall offer to sell the same for promiscuous payments, either in the paper medium, or gold or silver without distinction." This agreement is signed by upwards of 130 merchants, traders, &c. among whom are the most of the first rate people in business.

WIND AT DEAL, JULY 31. S. W.

EDINBURGH.

Extract of a letter from London, Aug. 1.

"Though the present state of things promise upon the face of them a continuance of peace, the tranquillity of Europe is likely soon to be interrupted in more ways than one. The discontents in Holland have arisen to such a pitch, and wear so serious an aspect, that their High Mightinesses have thought fit to prevent any thing of their present situation from finding its way into their Gazettes, so that little or nothing has transpired through the foreign mails. From this fact alone, every thing that is unfavourable may be augured of the state of that Republic; and, as the differences of it are widened or healed, Great Britain and Prussia, not to name the other members of the German League, will be affected. To the first of these powers it is particularly distressing, as a war would be at this time extremely mal apropos to all her views, and drive the present Administration from the helm of state. Matters, too, are coming every day more and more towards extremities in another quarter, and render a war far from surprising between the Empress Queen and the Turks. Accounts, too, likewise advise, that the French are filling, with great industry, their magazines of stores and ammunition.

"After all the parade that has been made about a renewal of a commercial treaty with Russia, and the prodigious consequences to flow from it to this country, it is now admitted by the Ministry themselves, that all hopes of it are at an end, and all commerce is entirely left to the mercy of her Imperial Majesty.

"In like manner, whatever may be propagated of it in some of our public prints, will the much-boasted commercial treaty with the Court of France, in all probability, terminate in nothing.

"It may be depended upon as a fact, that the present intention is for the Parliament's meeting in November, for the dispatch of public business. The opinion of a certain law Lord, whose counsels prevail, is said to have determined the Cabinet in this.

"Sir Joseph Yorke is not gone abroad in any public situation.

"The present most shameful price of provisions of all kinds, and, indeed, of every article of life, seems at length to have roused the attention of the public. A Committee of the Aldermen and Common Council of this city is appointed to enquire into the cause thereof, which they are determined to trace to the bottom; after which, a bill for the regulation of our markets, &c. will be framed, and carried into Parliament."

Thursday last arrived here, the Right Hon. Sir William Howe, K. B. Lieutenant General of the Ordnance.

On Tuesday last, at the quarterly meeting of the Royal College of Physicians here, Dr Thomas Stevenson, physician in Arbroath, was unanimously admitted a Licenciate.

On Tuesday last, at a quarterly meeting of the Royal College of Physicians, Dr David Morton, of the Island of Jamaica, was received a Fellow of the College.

On Thursday last, Mr Allan Macaulay was ordained one of the ministers of the town of Greenock.

This day, Archibald Cullings, a journeyman wright, was served with an indictment at the instance of his Majesty's Advocate, for an attempt to murder his wife, by cutting her throat with a razor in a most shocking manner, as particularly described in this paper the 5th of June last. The trial is to come on before the High Court of Justiciary on Monday fortnight. Contrary to expectation, the poor woman, from the particular attention paid to her case in the Royal Infirmary, has recovered.

There are many hints for the improvement of the city of Edinburgh, in the plan just published by Mr Craig, which are well worth the attention of the friends to the conveniency and ornament of the city. The Octagon at the entrance of the two Bridges, besides being very beautiful, would prevent many accidents which otherwise will inevitably happen, from the great concourse of carriages, horses, &c. and the Crescent near the College would have a fine effect. The eastern extremity of the Crescent exactly includes the Royal Infirmary, and its western the present College; and, as Mr Craig well observes, would represent the city like an open, generous friend, with extended arms, giving a hearty welcome to all strangers from the south, who may honour this metropolis with a visit. Another very important object taken notice of by Mr Craig, is the buildings intended to be erected near the Register Office, on the entrance from the road to Leith, which will leave by far too narrow an inlet from Leith to Edinburgh, as the road there will only be thirty-five feet broad, in place of eighty feet, as originally intended. This is a matter very interesting both to the inhabitants of Edinburgh and Leith.

The collection at St Andrew's Church on Tuesday, for the benefit of the Orphan Hospital, amounted to above 70 l. The orphans went in procession to and from the church neatly dressed in clothes spun and made by themselves, and afforded a sight highly pleasing to every friend to humanity and virtue.

Yesterday, sailed from Leith Roads, Commodore Melvill, in the Doddrecht ship of war of 66 guns, with the squadron under his command, having taken on board water and provisions necessary for proceeding on his cruise. This gentleman, whose predecessor left Scotland in the reign of Charles I. and was descended of the family of Melvill in Fifeshire, greatly distinguished himself in the last war, and was honoured with particular marks of approbation on his return to Holland.

We understand the Dutch fleet are sailed for Brest, where they propose to stay some time, and return to Holland in winter. The officers expressed the warmest acknowledgments for the attention paid them at Edinburgh during their stay here.

We hear from Stonehavie, that a vessel which sailed from thence on Thursday se'ennight, had since returned, with the loss of all her sails, except the storm jib. When off the Todhead, she shipped a deal of sea. At the same time a large quantity of herrings were washed on board, part of which were found upon the deck when the vessel came into port. Upon examining the sails after the storm had abated, a herring was found in the reef of the mainsail.

The Satisfaction, Chapman, and Perseverance, Laurie, arrived in Clyde, on the 29th ult. from Greenland; the former with 97 butts of blubber, the produce of three fish; and the latter with 75 butts, the produce of two fish.

The Pomona, Crawford, from Jamaica, is arrived at Philadelphia.

Jupiter, M'Murray, from Clyde and Grenada, at Antigua.

Wednesday night, betwixt ten and eleven, a female child, apparently about six weeks old, was found deserted by the mother, in a stair-case in the Saltmarket, Glasgow. The child was sent to the hospital, and it is hoped the unnatural mother will be discovered.

Extract of a letter from Kelso, August 4.

"Yesterday se'ennight we had one of the most violent storms of wind from the S. W. ever known at this season. By accounts from different parts of the country we learn, that many trees were torn up by the roots, much ripe corn shaken, great quantities of hay scattered, and most of the little fruit we had destroyed."

Extract of a letter from Glasgow, Aug. 3.

"On Saturday morning, about one o'clock, Mr Arch. Brodie, supervisor, and Mess. Macdonald, Macfarlane, Rowan, Laurence, and Fairfull, officers of Excise, assisted by an officer and 22 men of the 63d regiment lying here, set out for Shettlestown, about three miles from this city, in order to seize four illegal stills which were working in a coal pit there. Upon their arrival at the place, Mr Macfarlane, attended by a soldier, went down the pit by a rope, when they found the communication to the rooms strongly built up, except a small hole, through which the distillers creeped in to work: At the outside of, and close to the hole, was a large fire: When the Excise-officer and soldier attempted to clear away the fire, so as to have freedom to make the hole larger, some of the distillers, who were in the inside of the hole, threw a large quantity of brimstone into the fire, by which the Excise-officer and soldier were nearly suffocated before they were pulled up. When the pit was clear of the fume of the brimstone, Mess. Macdonald and Fairfull, and two soldiers, went repeatedly down, but were as often obliged to retreat. The distillers, having expended what brimstone they had, put green thorns into the fire, which had the desired effect; for, after five or six hours being thus vainly spent, the Excise-officers and military were obliged to leave the distillers in full possession of their works."

Miller and Halliday reinſtated in the management of their affairs, as formerly. And, upon an application to that purpoſe, the Lords of Seſſion, by an interlocutor of the 1d Auguſt current, recalled the ſequeſtration that had been awarded againſt them; and authoriſed Gilbert Hamilton merchant in Glaſgow, the factor, to recover the effects in their favour.

And there are alſo upon the lands two lime quarries, and limeſtone in other parts of the lands, with a good free-ſtone quarry. Great part of the lands have been paſtured with black cattle and ſheep for theſe eight or ten years.

Theſe lands are all out of leaſe, and may be entered to at Martinmas, or at the ſeparation of the crop, except the Glebe and houſes poſſeſſed by the Rev. Mr Oliver, which are ſet from year to year.

If a purchaſer inclines, the lands will be held feu of the expoſer, and a conſiderable part of the price will be converted into a feu.

If the lands are not ſold, they will be ſet in a long tack, or feued in ſmall parcels.

The conditions of ſale, title-deeds, and a plan of the eſtate, will be ſhown by John Gray writer to the ſignet; and the grounds will be ſhown by James Binnie, at Balvormy.

Lands in the Shire of Forfar.

TO be SOLD by public voluntary roup, within the Exchange Coffeehouſe, Edinburgh, upon Tueſday the 8th day of Auguſt 1786, at ſix o'clock afternoon,

The Lands of MAINS, and EASTER KIRKTON of Earl-Strathdighty, lying within the pariſh of Mains and ſheriffdom of Forfar.

This eſtate is well ſituated, within leſs than a mile of the town of Dundee, and is let to ſubſtantial tenants. From the nature of the leaſes, no expences whatever, during their currency, can be incurred by the proprietor. The tenants are obliged to obſerve a proper mode of culture, and a certain and very conſiderable riſe will take place when the tacks expire.

The preſent neit rent of this eſtate, after deduction of public burdens, is 1110 l. ſterling. The property-lands extend to above 1020 Scots acres. There is plenty of free ſtone upon them. They abound in game; and a water, full of trout, runs through the middle of the eſtate; which, beſides thriving hedge-rows around moſt of the incloſures, has old timber growing upon it to a conſiderable value.

David Cobb, tenant at New-Mains, will ſhew the grounds; and the progreſs of writs and plan of the eſtate are lodged with Mr Erſkine, clerk to the ſignet, to whom, or to Mr Farquharſon accountant in Edinburgh, any perſon inclining to make a private bargain, may apply.

For Rheumatiſms, Strains, Bruiſes, &c.

Dr STEERS's OPODELDOC.

THE excellence of this medicine in the above complaints is univerſally acknowledged. It is found to be equally ſerviceable in the Lumbago, Cramps, Numbneſs and Weakneſs in the Joints, as alſo in reſtoring a proper circulation to the limbs when in a paralytic ſtate. It is very efficacious in pains in the head and face, and will often cure the tooth-ach, after every other application has failed, by dipping a bit of cotton into it, and putting it into the hollow of the tooth. It is alſo an admirable remedy for burns and ſcalds, as likewiſe for the ſting of waſps, gnats, &c.

This Opodeldoc is alſo the beſt embrocation for horſes that are ſtrained in the back ſinews, or wrung in the withers, as likewiſe for ſwelled heels, wind-galls, ſplents, &c.

Sold in London only by the proprietors, H. Steers, at his medicinal warehouſe, No. 10, Old Bond Street, and F. Newbery, at the only warehouſe for Dr James's powder, No. 45, in St Paul's Churchyard, at the eaſt end, neareſt Cheapſide, in bottles of one ſize only, price 2 s. each, duty included.

N. B. It is become abſolutely neceſſary to caution the public againſt the counterfeits and imitations of this Opodeldoc, which are ſold in various ſizes, and to requeſt, that all purchaſers will be careful to obſerve, that the genuine is made in one ſize only, as above, and that the name of F. Newbery is engraved in all the ſtamps (by permiſſion of the Commiſſioners of the Stamp Office) the imitation of which will be a capital offence.

Sold, by appointment of the proprietors, by Meſſ. HAMILTON, ELDER, and Co. in Edinburgh.

SCOTCH TARRAS, or CEMENT.

THOMAS SMART Maſon and Architect in Dundee, ſeveral years ago diſcovered the art of making TARRAS or CEMENT, which, when properly mixed with lime compoſes a mortar that hardens under water to the conſiſtency of ſtone, and is fit for ſetting and jointing all kinds of aquatic works. Another kind of this cement is made for ſetting and jointing hewed work in any building, and for pointing walls and roofs that draw water.

The Tarras is made from materials found in this country, and has been uſed in different parts of Great Britain, and found to anſwer all the purpoſes of, and equal in ſtrength and goodneſs to the beſt foreign Tarras or Cement, and can be had much cheaper.

Samples of the Tarras will be given gratis to thoſe employed in fortifications, bridges, and other buildings, where large quantities of this kind of mortar is needed, that they may ſatisfy themſelves of its ſufficiency; and printed inſtructions will be given for preparing the mortar, and making it of a glutinous nature for the work intended.

Thomas Smart begs leave to offer his humble and hearty thanks to the Noblemen, Gentlemen, Artiſts, and others that have already encouraged him in this branch, and he is led to hope for the patronage and further encouragement of wellwiſhers to their country and its improvements.

The Tarras is ſold at the Manufactury, Whitehall's Cloſe, Dundee, at the moderate rate of 1 l. 4 s. Sterling per hogſhead, containing ſix hundreds weight, or in ſmall quantities at that rate. Commiſſions will be carefully attended to.

TO be SOLD, by public roup, or auction, within the Exchange Coffeehouſe, Edinburgh, upon Wedneſday the 16th day of Auguſt 1786, betwixt the hours of ſix and ſeven afternoon,

I. The Barony of CLOWDEN, alias NEWARK, lying in the pariſh of Kirkpatrick Irongray, and ſtewartry of Kirkcudbright, comprehending the lands and farms of Rowton Bridge, Upper, Nether, and Mid Dalwhairn, Lagg, Roachtree, Hallhill, Cottenholm, Newark Braes, Whinnyhill, Ingleſton, Gateſide, or Kirkpatrick and Clowden, with the corn, barley, and wheat mills, a ſalmon fiſhing in the river Clowden, and the vice patronage of the pariſh of Kirkpatrick Irongray.

This eſtate is of a remarkable good ſoil, well incloſed and ſubdivided with thriving full grown hedges; it is at preſent in good condition, and there is ſufficiency of ſhell marl upon it to keep it ſo. It contains about 1870 Engliſh acres, whereof 1500 are arable and meadow, about 90 woodland, and the remainder very good paſture. The preſent rent is 883 l. 1 s. 1 d. ſterling, and the tenants beſide pay the victual ſtipend and ſchool ſalary; but a conſiderable riſe of rent may be depended on at the expiry of the current leaſes. It holds of the Crown, and ſtands rated in the ceſs-books at 2400 l. 10 s. Scots. The teinds are valued, and the purchaſer will have right to them.

The woods are well incloſed, and very thriving; at laſt cutting they ſold for upwards of 700 l. ſterling, excluſive of the woods on Hallhill, which are preſently fit for ſale.

This eſtate is pleaſantly ſituated on the banks of the river Clowden, within three miles of the town of Dumfries; and it has many delightful ſituations upon it for building a manſion-houſe, which would command the view of the rivers Nith and Clowden, the town and port of Dumfries, the whole gentlemen's ſeats in that rich and populous neighbourhood, the Solway frith, and the Cumberland hills; and there is a good free-ſtone quarry on the eſtate, near a good ſtance for a manſion-houſe.

Mr W. Black, at Nando's Coffeehouſe, London, can give a full deſcription of this eſtate.

This eſtate will be expoſed at 20,000 l.

II. The Lands of Over and Nether BARNCLEUGHS, lying in the ſaid pariſh and county, within a mile and an half of Clowden, conſiſting of about 200 Engliſh acres, whereof 160 are arable, and 19 moſs, where there is an inexhauſtible quantity of ſhell marl.

Theſe lands are all ſufficiently incloſed and ſubdivided with good ſtone walls. The preſent rent is only 50 l. but when the current leaſe expires at Martinmas 1787, a conſiderable riſe will be got.

The teinds are valued, and the purchaſer will have right to them.

Theſe lands will be expoſed at 1500 l. ſterling.

III. The Lands and Eſtate of GELSTON, lying in the pariſhes of Kelton and Buittle, and county aforeſaid, comprehending the farms of Boreland and Gelſton, with the mill and mill-lands; and Craigley in the pariſh of Kelton, and Cuil in the pariſh of Buittle, containing about 1360 acres all of an exceeding rich quality, well incloſed and ſubdived, with ſtone walls, and full grown fencible hedges.

On this eſtate there is a good manſion-houſe and offices, with a garden and orchard, and ſome thriving plantations; and an inexhauſtible quantity of ſhell marl for improving the ſame, and for ſale to the neighbouring heritors.

The eſtate is let to good tenants, at about 600 l. Sterling of yearly rent. The whole holds of the Crown; and the lands of Boreland afford a freehold qualification on the old extent. The teinds of the whole are valued; and the purchaſer will have right to them in the pariſh of Buittle, and to a current tack of the teinds in the pariſh of Kelton.

The ſituation of Gelſton is very convenient and inviting, being within three miles of the ſea-port of Auchcairn, on the Solway frith, and two miles of the great military road leading from Carliſle to Portpatrick, to both of which there are good roads.

This eſtate will be expoſed at 14,500 l. Sterling.

IV. Theſe parts of the Barony of GLASSNOCK, lying in the pariſh of Peningham and county of Wigton, comprehending the farms of Over and Nether Glaſſnocks, Killeal, Kirkchriſt, and Killymore, with a ſalmon-fiſhing in the river Bladnoch, and the ſuperiority of the lands of Drummory and Carſbuie, lying in the pariſh of Kirkcowan, and county of Wigton.

Theſe are good grazing lands, both for black cattle and ſheep. The preſent rent, including the feu-duties in Kirkcowan pariſh, is only 114 l. 12 s. 9 d. 6-12ths; but the tenants paid large graſſums in 1766, when their leaſes commenced; ſo, in 1787, when they expire, a great riſe may be depended on, large offers being already made. The teinds are valued; and the tenants pay all the public burdens, ſtipend excepted.

Theſe lands will be expoſed at 4000 l. Sterling.

V. The Farm of CULSCADDEN, in the pariſh of Sorbie and county of Wigton, alſo part of the ſaid Barony of Glaſnock, let at 160 l. per annum, conſiſting of about 290 Engliſh acres, all good arable land, except about 15 acres, lying on the bay of Wigton, and having a ſafe port for exporting the produce of the lands.

This farm is all incloſed and ſubdivided; has within it an inexhauſtible quantity of ſhell marl, and ſea-ſhells; and the kelp on the ſhore yields from ten to twelve guineas every third year.

The teinds are valued.

This farm will be expoſed at 4000 l. Sterling.

The title-deeds, conditions of ſale, tacks, rentals, plans, and meaſurements of the ſeveral eſtates before-mentioned, will be ſeen in the hands of William Campbell writer to the ſignet, Edinburgh; and, for further information, apply to Alexander Farquharſon accomptant in Edinburgh, who has power to ſell by private bargain.

John Linton, in Gateſide, near Dumfries, will ſhow the eſtate of Clowden; Mr Heron jun. of Ingleſton, the eſtate of Gelſton; and Mr Cockburn, at Cree-bridge, the lands in Wigton ſhire.
